Ann Arbor Police Department Launches New Transparency Dashboard

The Ann Arbor Police Department has launched The Official Ann Arbor Police Department Public Dashboard, a new online transparency dashboard designed to give community members easier access to up-to-date crime data and information. The interactive resource allows users to explore crime trends citywide, downtown, and by ward.

The AAPD dashboard is updated weekly to show information about criminal incidents reported to the department, providing community members with the most current view of local public safety activity. The dashboard includes data dating back to 2021, allowing users to view trends over time and analyze patterns by day of the week and hour of the day.

“Our goal is to provide the community with clear, accessible information about public safety in Ann Arbor,” said Chief Andre Anderson. “Transparency is essential to building trust, and this dashboard is another way for community members to see the data that guides our work every day.”

The latest data shows that overall crime in Ann Arbor is down 8% citywide so far this year, with violent crime down 4% citywide.

Chief Anderson added, “By making this information readily available, we hope to strengthen our connection with the community, encourage collaboration, and ensure community members feel informed and engaged in keeping Ann Arbor safe.”

In addition to the new dashboard, Chief Anderson will also begin hosting a series of “Chief’s Community Chats” across the city, providing community members with the opportunity to share what’s on their minds and engage directly with police leadership. AAPD will also hold quarterly “CompStat” meetings open to the public, offering a closer look at crime trends and ongoing efforts to keep the community safe. Follow AAPD on social media to stay informed of when these opportunities will take place.

The transparency dashboard represents AAPD’s ongoing commitment to accountability, innovation, and open communication with those we serve.

Community members can access the dashboard on the City of Ann Arbor website at <https://annarborpolice.org/dashboard>.
